Session Description

Critical thinking is central to effective task management and decision-making in high-risk situations. In this class, nurse leaders will learn how actively assessing and analyzing information can help them evaluate and improve their quality of thinking. Key principles of and barriers to thinking critically will be studied. The course also explains how to apply critical thinking throughout the nursing process to help staff arrive at the appropriate decision or conclusion.

Course Objectives

At the end of this course, participants will be able to:

- Define critical thinking.
- Apply ways of analyzing, reasoning and evaluating problems.
- Explain intellectual standards.
- Discuss the feeling, vision and examination models.
- Recognize barriers to thinking critically in nursing practice.
- Identify opportunities for applying critical thinking in nursing practice.

Who Should Attend?

Charge nurses looking to develop their leadership skills.

FACULTY

Mark Kaliher, RN

Mark Kaliher has over 20 years of nursing experience, primarily in the emergency department. He currently works as a charge nurse at Bear Valley Community Hospital in San Bernardino County. Kaliher has experience working with a variety of teams through many years of registry work and critical care transports. For the past 10 years, he has also led courses through FlexEd and HASC, becoming one of their most requested instructors. Students consistently say he's able to take complicated concepts and make them easy to understand. His humor and passion for nursing make each course an enjoyable experience.
